This office building serves as headquarters for Montana Department of Natural Resources and Conservation agencies providing land management, planning and fire-fighting in the Central region.

The building is provided with high-performance mechanical and electrical systems which use 33% less energy than code requirements. Upgraded envelope insulation and rain-screen wall construction provides ratings 37% better than code. Montana fir is used throughout as trim and paneling. Native and adapted drought-tolerant plantings are used as landscaping.
